MAJESTIC BEAUTY...

It is with great pleasure that we introduce you to the beautiful streams of Missouri and the professional outfitters listed in this guide.

As a professional association MCFA members strive each year to promote, protect and preserve our beautiful streams. Our no glass bill on the rivers is now really taking effect and the stream teams are doing a wonderful job of maintaining our waterways and volunteer monitoring of water quality projects.

In the hustle-bustle society that we live in we sometimes forget to notice the beautiful things in life. On a late August evening, I was down on the ferryboat and about a thousand bats were darting back and forth. This is a beautiful sight to see and they do reduce the insect population. Another awesome experience is paddling through a blanket of fog about two feet high above the surface of the river. Have you experienced paddling with icicles hanging from the bluffs reaching to the river? And in October you can paddle in the early morning with the fall colors and steam rising above the canoes. Have you ever watched a full moon sparkling across a rapid of rippling water, watched a blue heron standing in a mossy cove searching for his next meal, or watched a mother wood duck with her ducklings following her in a straight line? On occasion you can look down the river and see a 12-point buck standing in the river. Another beautiful sight is a bald eagle soaring in the air as you and your canoe float down the river. All of these animals can be seen on our Missouri float streams. The rivers can be a great companion to you and your soul. This is only a little part of your experience on our Missouri streams.

Use this guide to find an outfitter on your favorite river. Please call and be a very special guest during all seasons.

See you on the river!

Crystal-Clear, Spring-Fed Rivers

RENT A BOAT, TAKE A FLOAT!

Great for Families

Take your family and friends on a float trip in Missouri and be a kid again! Around each bend a new world unfolds – the water, the sounds and the sights are all unique to our beautiful rivers and streams. Look down into the clear water and you'll see colorful rocks, worn smooth from the flowing water. Above, tall bluffs tower majestically overhead. Eagles live up there and, if you're lucky, you might see one. Look downriver and there's the next bend. Who knows what treasures are on the other side? You have to be there, floating the river, to find out!

If you like to fish for trout or bass (who doesn't?) then toss your favorite rod into the boat and float your bait or lure into the gentle currents. Our streams are not heavily fished and luck is usually with the fisherman.

After a day on the water, streamside camping, cozy cabins and modern RV facilities will make your stay complete. Gather 'round an evening campfire and tell tall tales. A good night's sleep is almost guaranteed.

One thing for sure: you won't find better floating, prettier scenery and nicer folks anywhere. Floaters keep coming back to Missouri rivers. That's why our state slogan is Where The Rivers Run. It could also be The Best Floating in America. Visit our waterways to discover why!

SAFETY REGULATIONS

IN SALEM & EMINENCE, MISSOURI

HOW TO HANDLE CANOE EMERGENCIES

AVOID ROOTS!

The rootwads and trunks of trees present disastrous traps for the unwary.

STAY ALERT!

SWAMPING

If you get stuck on a rock or log, lean downstream. If you capsize be sure to stay upstream of the canoe. Otherwise you might get pinned between the boat and an obstruction.

TWO BASIC CANOEING STROKES

BASIC STROKES

The first stroke to learn is the simple bow stroke. The paddler reaches forward with the blade, dips it into the water and pulls it back along the side of the canoe. Although this is known as the bow stroke, it is the basic stroke used by both the bow and stern paddlers when two persons are paddling.

The stern paddler, who is responsible for steering the canoe, ends the bow stroke with an outward sweep of the paddle.

For balance, safety and keeping on course, the stern paddler usually paddles on the opposite side of the canoe from the bow paddler. Strokes should be timed with those of the bow paddler. The bow paddler must learn additional strokes, for it is sometimes necessary to control the direction of the canoe from the bow.
